Drinking At Games

More than one college has been having trouble with drunk and disorderly conduct at athletic and social events. As a rule, Western has avoided this kind of behavior.

At the last home football game, however, a few tipsy bottle openers in the Western stands made an obnoxious spectacle with their antics. A great many spectators expressed their disgust for such conduct. There are reasons why such conduct should be stopped.

First, it is a reflection on our institution. A half dozen drinking persons can cause the outside spectator to go away with the idea that our school is one big drinking party. The fact is that only a very few persons are guilty, but these few can ruin the appearance of the entire student body.

Second, the person who drinks in a mixed crowd of spectators is making himself ridiculous.

Third, the drinking of alcoholic beverages at college athletic and social events is unlawful. State and local police have promised to cooperate with the administration and to arrest violators.

A football game is certainly no place for a Mr. Flood's party, nor is a dance or any other school-sponsored event. We believe in school spirit at ball games, but not the kind inspired by double-distilled spirits. Enjoy yourself, but do not drink at games.

It takes twice as long to convert a body of women to some new fallacy as it takes to convert a body of men.

"Missed It"

There's a note of tragedy in the statement, "I missed it." For a thing once missed is always missed. Kerensky, the capable Russian prime minister who fought in vain to save Russia from Lenin and the Bolsheviks, once spoke in chapel here. His name is now in history books. A great number of students in school at that time "missed that chapel."

Chapel is a thing the student can not afford to miss. Failure to attend chapel means a loss—socially, culturally, and even financially.

Inspiring speakers come here. Listening to Dr. Edwin Mims, Dr. Alfred Crabb, or Jesse Stuart—former chapel speakers—can hardly fail to add something to one's personality.

The cultural, entertainment, and educational benefits in being present at chapel are immeasurable. Offerings have varied from a reptile exhibition by Jack Raymon to songs by Hollywood's Guardsmen Quartet.

A small sum is deducted from each student's registration to secure these chapel performers. In other words, you've bought your ticket to chapel, so you're losing money when you don't go.

Here is opportunity, yours for the taking, a chance to add something real to yourself. You can't afford to miss it.

If mankind had wished for what is right, they might have had it long ago.

Mind Your Manners

By Evelyn Bailey

By all means look pleased, but never say "Pleased to meet you" when you've been introduced to someone.

Similarly, "Charmed to meet you" seldom can be used in good form, because it is not often that one is fascinated, enchanted, bewitched, or captivated by meeting someone new.

The simple response, "How do you do?" accompanied by your nicest smile is thought to be the best reply to an introduction. If true, you may say, "I have looked forward to meeting you," or "I am very glad to meet you," but speak from your heart.

Having the spoken-response well taken care of, you naturally find something else to think about: whether or not to shake hands. Girls and women may or may not. The one to whom the introduction has been made, the older woman, has the privilege of offering her hand, and if she does not, the shaking of hands is deemed unnecessary.

Men and boys usually do shake hands when introduced, with no rules governing the order of hand extensions.

When a boy or man is introduced to a girl or woman, it is the member of the fairer sex who has the privilege of taking the lead in extending a hand. Should; however, the knight offer his hand, the lady would be very rude if she did not graciously shake it with one of her lily-whites. It cannot be said that a mistake of hand is synonymous with a mistake of heart.

These few rules concerning introductions are the very simplest and are not as complete, or complex, as those of Emily Post. Nevertheless, these rules, if learned well and practiced untiringly, help to make introductions pleasant things to make and to receive.

Introductions made in correct form with smoothness are undeniably one of the most important steps toward the achievement of good manners in general.

Mistakes are made in everything, and the development of a model personality pattern is no exception. Just don't make the same mistake twice, keep trying, and grace, poise, and good manners will be yours.

BETTY SUE HILL

A new personality on the Western campus this year is Betty Sue Hill, junior transfer student from Bethel Women's College, Hopkinsville. An elementary education major, Betty Sue plans to make a career of teaching, her main ambition being that of becoming a good teacher.

A '47 graduate of Nebo High School, Betty Sue finished at Bethel Junior College in 1949. She then taught a year before coming to Western to continue her college work.

Attending Bethel interested her in many ways. She wanted to attend a denominational junior college for girls, and Bethel was the solution. Western, too, attracted Betty Sue in many ways. She had friends here, had heard many good reports of Western and particularly the education department; and upon visits here had discovered the beauty of the campus.

Betty Sue has a variety of interests, especially music, reading, traveling, and making friends.

The summer of '49, which Betty Sue spent as a staffer at Ridgecrest Baptist Assembly, Ridgecrest, N. C., holds first place in her memories of happy experiences. Next, she places her experiences as a teacher, which she said she found both eventful and satisfying. With her intense desire to succeed as a teacher, there is no doubt that she will.

The best answer to Communism is a living, vibrant, fearless democracy—economic, social, and political. All we need to do is stand up and perform according to our professed ideals. Then those ideals will be safe.

With Western Coeds It's Men Two To One

By VERNON STONE

I have before me some statistics that are not at all encouraging. They concern a group of creatures called girls. They (the statistics) are cold, unbalanced, and a bit deceptive.

This report comes from the registrar's office, where women outnumber men eight to one, and it concerns the Western campus, where men outnumber women two to one. To be exact, there are 1217 men on the Hill and 537 women.

NOW THE LAW of supply and demand says that the less the commodity, the higher the price. A glance at these figures would tell any economist that a seller's market exists, and it is a well known fact that a seller's market often leads to monopolistic practices.

Most of the boys I know would like about three dates a week. Our ratio tells us that this would mean six dates a week for each girl on the campus. Since they aren't allowed to go out that often, my only conclusion is that somebody's demand isn't being supplied.

The situation isn't improving either. Rises in enrollment were noted in the agriculture, industrial arts, and ROTC departments. What we really need is more home economics majors.

Actually Western should prove attractive for those girls who are interested in adding a man to their list of college credits. But the statistics say they're not enrolled.

OTHER COLLEGES are even worse off (the male point of view) than we. Tennessee Tech has 1154 men and 451 women. At the University of North Dakota the ratio is three to one. The North Dakota student paper even proposes a Deficiencies in Necking society for the boys.

This society, however, would probably result only in a pain in the neck for its founders. There's no way to get around the law of supply and demand.

Supply and demand also applies to the phone at Potter hall. At a conservative estimate, it takes two hours to call up a girl.

Meanwhile the phones keep ringing at the girls' dorms and nobody seems to be worried about a few statistics.

Looking Around

"Now is the time for all eager women to come to the aid of their sex," says a story in the University of Kentucky Kernel.

It seems that this week is the annual Sadie Hawkins Week at UK, and today is Sadie Hawkins day for the UK Dogcatchers. Here are the rules: money—the girls pay; dates—the girls ask for 'em; just about everything is reversed.

"Anything goes," says the girl who wrote the story, "short of murder, of course, which would not accomplish the desired result."

Two colleges that have a lot in common are Western Michigan State, Kalamazoo, and Western Kentucky State. Each college is built on a hill and the student newspaper at each is named the Herald.

A leg-weary columnist wrote in the last Herald (not our Herald) the following solution for Western (this Western):

"I suggest that we carry out one of two plans. One is to cut off the top of the hill and allow the buildings to settle to plane even with the surrounding territory or bring in fill-in dirt and bring the rest of Kalamazoo up to the level of the Administration building."

Looking Backward

Kentucky Weavers Guild

The Kentucky Weavers Guild will hold its October meeting in the Kentucky Building Sunday, October 22, the hours are from 2 to 4 p.m.

Representatives from weaving guilds all over the State will be present.

Miss Lou Tate of Louisville, formerly of Bowling Green, will be in charge. Miss Tate is a national authority on weaving.

All persons who are interested in weaving are invited to attend the meeting and see the exhibits which will be on display.

Jep C. Jonson

A complete Confederate uniform which was originally the property of Judge Jep C. Jonson, of McLean and Muhlenberg counties, was presented to the Kentucky building museum recently by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. C. Jonson of Greenville.

The Library had formerly received another gift from the Jonsons, a copy of the debates of the Constitutional Convention of 1849.

Three of Judge Jonson's grand children have been Western students: Martha Beverly Jonson, AB'34, Russell Jonson, and Jep C. Jonson.

War Hero

Jep C. Jonson, grandson of Judge Jep C. Jonson, left Western and enrolled at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, in 1933.

Jonson was among the first former Western students to be killed in World War II, having lost his life in a plane crash in the Aleutian Islands. He was posthumously awarded ed the Order of the Flying Cross for exceeding bravery in action.

M. C. Hay Collection

Outstanding in a collection recently received at the Museum are three old costumes, one for an adult lady and two girls' dresses.

An unusual item is an old pocket watch wound by a key from which the expression "stem-winder" originated. Other interesting items include an old fan, a doll, a parasol, a pair of glove stretchers, a jewelry box, Campaign ribbons, and many other items. Also placed with this collection were copies of the Hay and Yost genealogy.

This collection of relics was formerly owned by members of the M. C. Hay family and was given to the museum by Mrs. Doyle Willis of Greenville. Mrs. Willis is a descendant of the Hay and Brizendine families.

Cannon Appointed Hospital Director

Dr. Richard O. Cannon, BS '40, has been appointed director of Vanderbilt hospital. It was announced September 26 by Harvie Bamcomb, Chancellor of Vanderbilt University.

Dr. Cannon, a native of Leitchfield, has been assistant director of the hospital for the past year.

Dr. Cannon was formerly medical director of the Nashville regional Red-Cross blood center. He also has served as instructor in obstetrics and gynecology at Vanderbilt University.

Studies Speech At Columbia U.

Russell Miller, of the English department and faculty director of the Western Players, attended Columbia University, New York, this summer. He did graduate work in speech psychology, educational foundations, mental hygiene, and phonetics.

For the past three summers he worked with the university's dramatic workshop. One of the activities of the workshop is the attendance by the students of different plays that are being produced on Broadway. Dr. Paul Kosselka, director of the workshop, makes arrangements with the directors of the plays being presented on Broadway for his students to go backstage and observe the technicalities of a production.

During Mr. Miller's first summer there, he directed "The Contrast". The second summer he worked with the technical crew on the summer productions. He took part in this summer's production "Escape", which was a revival of a play written by John Galsworthy. This play was presented in a theater located at Broadway and One Hundred Twentieth street.

While in New York, Mr. Miller attended Oscar Levant's program of George Gershwin's music at Lewisohn Stadium, Gladys Swarthout's program of Rodgers and Hammerstein's music, and the Ballet Theatre's program of "Swan Lake", "Fancy Free", and "Princess Aurora". Also included in the plays he saw were "As You Like It", starring Kathryn Hepburn, and "South Pacific", starring Mary Martin.

Washington's Farewell Address was first presented to the American public in the columns of the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser.

ROTC Enrollments Soar To New High Of 596

Enrollment in Western's Army and Air ROTC units for this semester has skyrocketed to all-time record figures. A total of 596 men are enrolled in the units. This means that almost one half of the 1217 male students on the Hill are members of ROTC.

The tally of 596 represents an increase of 258 students over last year's number of 338.

180 Advanced Cadets

One hundred and eighty juniors and seniors are taking the advanced courses and thereby receiving the ninety cents a day from the government. Army advanced cadets number 72; the Air, 108.

Lt. Col. Glenn A. Sikes, professor of military science and tactics, reports that the 213 men enrolled in Army ROTC constitutes the highest enrollment for the unit since before World War II.

Three hundred and eighty-three students are now taking Air ROTC, according to Capt. Allan P. Adair, acting professor of air science and tactics of the younger of the two local units.

The average enrollment for the Army ROTC during the years 1937-1941 was 241 men. Highest Army enrollment on record was the 420 men in the fall of 1940.

During the war the enrollment dropped to a low of nine men, spring semester, 1944. The average for the years 1944-45 was 18. In 1945-46, the average rose to 39; in 1946-47, to 76. The following school year the enrollment jumped to 138, and in 1948-49, the last year that the Air and Army units were combined, the total enrollment was reported as 245.

390 Freshman

The Army ROTC claims an enrollment of 72 advanced students, including 44 juniors and 28 seniors. Thirty-four sophomores and 107 freshmen are listed.

The enrollment for the first year of the Air Force ROTC's basic course is a record number of 193 men. The previous record of enrollment for the freshman class occurred the past school year with 94 students in this class. During the school year 1946-49, the enrollment was only 66 men.

The sophomore class, which is the second year basic course, has 88 members. The previous record for this class was held during the 1940-50 school year also, with an enrollment of 68.

The advanced class of the Air Force ROTC unit has announced that they have 108 men, with 61 men in the junior class and 47 in the senior division. This is an increase of 49 men over the enrollment for this past year, and an increase of 90 men from the year before last.

R. H. Seward was re-elected to his 28th term as executive secretary-treasurer of the College Heights Foundation at the annual session of the board of directors held in the foundation's office in the Kentucky building, Monday night, October 2.

Mr. Seward reported that the College Heights Foundation loaned $23,362 to deserving students of Western last year and repayments last year amounted to $23,964.30.

During the past three years the foundation has made 3,148 loans to students totaling $73,814.50. Mr. Seward revealed that loans were made to all students, regardless of classification and that no security was required.

Loans over the three year period were as follows: 937 in 1947-48; 1,203 in 1948-49, and 1,008 in 1949-50.

Loans aggregating $359,456.57 have been made to 10,927 students during the life of the Foundation. Repayments for the same period were listed as $354,027.82.

The capital fund increased during the past year from $116,435.57 to $117,717.19.

James L. Hall was re-elected to his 22nd term as manager of the college's book store.

Four directors, whose term had expired, were re-elected. They are: Dr. Paul L. Garrett, president of Western; Charles L. Taylor, head of the agriculture department; Gaston Coke, Auburn, and Laurence B. Pinn, City. Mr. Pinn, however, offered his resignation because of declining health.

Alumni News By Bill Ford

Mack Sisk, co-publisher of the Dawson Springs Progress, was this summer appointed as an administrative assistant to Governor Earle C. Clements. He is in charge of public relations.

Prior to his appointment, Mr. Sisk was editor of the Hopkins County Times at Madisonville, Kentucky.

Mr. Sisk entered the newspaper field with The Progress in 1946 shortly after he was discharged from the Air Force and helped found The Times in 1948.

He received his high school training at Dawson Springs and attended Western, where he was business manager of the Herald during his junior year and co-editor during his senior year.

Robert L. Towe, Madisonville, Kentucky, is the vice-president of a new corporation formed by the merger of The Earlington News and The Hopkins County Times. He is one of the three owners in the new corporation.

Mr. Towe has been advertising manager of The Times since September, 1948, when it first made its bow into the Kentucky weekly newspaper field.

The Times was declared winner of the Kentucky Press Association's 1950 "best all-around community newspaper award" at the annual convention in June.

Miss Norma Boster, formerly of Western, is now in Law school at the University of Kentucky.

It seems we have some students who transferred to U. K. this year. A few names which have been confirmed through a letter from Betty Howard are Martha Rogers, Cliff Coleman, Donny Donoho, Jack Richardson, William Hourigan, Byron Omer, Kenneth Vance, Don Butler, and Billy N. Miller. Incidentally, Betty is in school at Lexington too.

Miss Estelle Holland, class of '46, is now teaching at Steed College of Technology, Elizabethton, Tennessee. Formerly Miss Holland has taught in Tulsa, Oklahoma; Seattle, Washington and Lynden, Washington. Before going to Elizabethton, she taught commercial subjects at Clinton, Kentucky.

Ray Mills, class of '46, assistant coach at Mayfield, Kentucky, was injured in an automobile accident near El Dorado, Arkansas, on October 7.

Mr. Mills and Raymond Herndon, head coach at Mayfield, were on their way to Shreveport, La., to see the Mississippi State-Baylor football game.

Herndon suffered a fractured jaw, and Mills, former quarterback for Western, received a crushed elbow and a fractured nose.

Alumni and Western students who hall from Tennessee are sure to get a bang out of the big spread which their state receives in the November issue of Holiday magazine.

We hope the Curtis Publishing Company has a similar one up its sleeve dealing with Kentucky.

Five Faculty Members Attend Education Assn.

Dr. C. H. Jagers, director of the Training School, and five other members of the Training School and Western faculties, traveled to Elizabethton yesterday for the Fourth District Educational Association. They will also be there today.

In the party were Dr. L. F. Jones, head of the education department; Dr. Mary I. Cole, education department; Ethel Barnard, Training School; and Frances Dixon, Training School; and Mrs. Nell Travelstead, music department.

The group from Bowling Green are serving as consultants and leaders of a program for the improvement of instruction by use of the community and its resources, and for the improvement of home and school relations.

Articles By Lowell Harrison Published

Lowell Harrison, AB'46, is the author of two articles that appeared in recent publications.

"Early Massachusetts School System" is the title of his research article in the current October issue of the Essex Institute Historical Collections.

Harrison, who is working toward the Ph. D. at New York University, collaborated with Fred E. Crossland, also of that school, in writing "The British Labour Party in the General Elections," which was published in the May, 1950, issue of the Journal of Politics.

This year, Harrison is assistant director of foreign students at N. Y. U.

Miss Sibyl Stonecipher of the Latin department attended Indiana University's homecoming at Bloomington, Oct. 7.

Book Marks

By BILL FORD

A word of advice to freshmen. Now is the time to become acquainted with the library. You will need to be able to use its various resources, especially next semester when the time to write a research paper comes around.

Drop around the first chance you get and learn how to use the reserve room, how to find what you want in the card catalogue, and how to find what you need in the periodical room. Don't delay this until some teacher requires it of you, it's an important part of your college studies.

JESSE STUART, friend of all Kentucky teachers, is also friend of the farmers and he knows his crops. One passage from his book, "Hie to the Hunter", describes tobacco leaves hanging in a shed as being "in case"—that is, no longer brittle, but limp with moisture and ready for stripping from the stalk. Mr. Stuart is a native Kentucky author.

"DOCTORS COURAGEOUS" by Dr. Edward H. Hume summarizes the lives of some of the great Christian missionary doctors in Africa, India, the Near and Middle East, and China. His stories of their unselfish work can help answer the Communist charge that all Americans are money-mad.

Elmer T. ... "The Small Sects in America" discusses the histories and beliefs of the smaller church denominations of our country. This is one of few books which have been written about the ten per cent of church members which belong to these groups.

"The Little Princesses" is a human document of the stories of Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose of England. Their governess tells intimate details of her life in Buckingham Palace with the royal family. Mrs. Marion Crawford dedicates the book to "the people of America, with the fervent hope that our nations may come ever closer together in mutual understanding and sympathy."

In "The Art of Real Happiness" Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, minister, and Dr. Smiley Blanton, medical psychiatrist, present discussions based on case histories of their experiments in helping people who for one reason or another are unhappy. Some of the subjects analyzed are—What to do about social drinking—How can you have peace of mind—How to stay healthy under pressure.

FRANCE AMERIQUE, a French Sunday newspaper, has this year been added to the list of newspapers received by the library periodical room.

This newspaper is comparable to the magazine section of the New York Times.

Other new periodicals being received include the Journal of Clinical Psychology, a quarterly publication containing research articles of authority, and The Journal of School Health, published by the American School Health Association, with articles of interest on school and community health programs and problems.

Former Instructor Returns For Visit

Mrs. Joseph Regan, AB'30, visited the Western campus Wednesday, Oct. 4. She is the former Miss Lena Logan, history instructor during the summer terms from 1941 to 1947.

Mrs. Regan has distinguished herself in the field of social sciences. In 1941 she was granted the J. Franklin Jameson Fellowship, a yearly fellowship granted to one outstanding woman graduate student in the United States for research in American history in the Library of Congress. She received the Ph. D. in history and economics from Indiana University in 1942.

During the war Mrs. Regan served as lieutenant in the WAVES and from 1946-47 worked as historian in the State Department. While serving in this department she compiled and edited volumes in the "Foreign Relations Series."

Mrs. Regan has been married since 1947 to Major Joseph Regan and at present resides with her husband and two-year old son in Alexandria, Va.

Greeley's New York Tribune was the first paper in America to recognize Charles Dickens as a great writer.

Cravens Wins Prizes, Trip

By Evelyn Bailey

Raymond L. Cravens, of near Russell Springs in Russell county, was honored August 15 at a gala five-hour testimonial banquet for his skill in design and craftsmanship in the annual Fisher Body Craftsman Guild Model Car Competition.

Craven's sleek streamlined model car won the Kentucky and the Regional championships, the Regional including both the states of Kentucky and Tennessee.

Gets Awards

The state award was $150. The Regional awards were a 10-karat gold insignia ring of the Craftsman's Guild, a Parker '51 fountain pen, and an expense-paid trip to the four-day Guild Convention in Detroit.

Craven's expertly designed model car was carved from a solid block of balsa wood, and was made to the scale of one inch to one foot on a car. His entry barely missed taking one of the eight university scholarships awarded to the top national winners.

At the Convention were 42 other regional winners from all over the United States, and a number of the nation's greatest leaders in science, education, and industry.

Tours and Recreation

Besides attending the elaborate and exciting banquet, Cravens had an opportunity to view the great automotive industry from the styling of the cars in the design studios of General Motors, through production at Fleetwood Fisher Body factory and Cadillac Motor Division assembly plant.

In addition, he was privileged to tour the General Motors proving ground at Milford, Mich., and to see giant sales displays in the General Motors building at Detroit.

In the way of recreation, the Guild winners traveled in Canada and went for long cruises on Lake St. Clair and the rivers around Detroit.

Two days of the Convention were spent at the exclusive "Old Club" on Harsen's Island on Lake St. Clair.

Cravens is a 19-year-old junior majoring in the social science area. He is an advanced Air ROTC cadet and holds the rank of first lieutenant. Cravens is a member of the History and Congress Debating clubs, and is cartoonist for the Herald.

Old Chattanooga Lives Again In Crabb's Novel

A Review by Vernon Stone

REUNION AT CHATTANOOGA: By Alfred L. Crabb, 308 pp., Bobbs-Merrill, $2.75.

It is truly refreshing to find a book like this among today's novels. Most current offerings are centered around abnormal psychology, with characters that stumble around in the dark, every man a sensational misfit. One begins to wonder if normal persons still exist.

DR. CRABB'S characters are not unusual. They are plain, ordinary folks, the kind who make up most of our nation. The things they do and say may seem hum-drum, but they reflect the honest, down-to-earth philosophy that has built America.

This mature and sound philosophy of life is characteristic of the author. No stumbling around in the dark for him; he has a story to tell, as well as a message to his readers that the human race is not such a bad lot after all.

"Reunion at Chattanooga" is a historical novel portraying both the growth of a city and the affairs of a family as they existed in the years following the Civil War. The effects of the war are shown as causes of action during the postwar period for both.

CHATTANOOGA IN the period treated by the novel (1876-1890) had an influx of Yankee blood that helped the little town grow from mud and grime to a prosperous city. "Growing pains are present, in such forms as yellow fever and the 'bust' that inevitably follows over-expansion. The story gives us history as lived by the people of the time.

In this setting live such people as Grandma Blevins, true daughter of the old South whose lively and nostalgic memories color the conversations with her granddaughter as they sit on the front porch. Her fondness for the past is combined with an eagerness for the future that enables her to shift from reminiscence to robust action.

The thing she hopes for, a reunion of her two very unlike sons, is hindered by an almost insurmountable barrier. Practical-minded Clay had married his carefree brother's girl friend while Joe Bevins was in the Confederate Army. The shock never leaves Joe, and though he is willing even to sacrifice his life for his brother, he avoids the old house and family as if a photograph, a parlor, and remnants of a used-to-be are painful for him.

THIS MAIN theme of the story is tempered by a warm sense of humor. The same whimsical pen that gave us the driver in Dr. Crabb's Nashville novels gives us now George Fountainblow, "a man of color, handy at a dozen things, but handiest at persuasion." His project for moving a house across town by mule power is as shaky as the timbers of his installment-plan shanty.

Dr. Crabb's portrayal of local color reaches a new height in this book. Chattanooga and Lookout Mountain are alive and changing with the Tennessee seasons. He describes it with sentiment and a touch of romance.

This latest of Dr. Crabb's historical novels will be welcomed by those who know his writings. For others, it offers a good chance for acquaintance. Here is a delightful story, an adventure in local color, and a philosophy that unites truth and optimism. Reading it will prove refreshing and worth-while.

Gallery Shows Guatemalan Art

Another in a series of exhibits extending through today is now on display in the Art gallery, featuring textiles and illustrations of picturesque Guatemala in water colors, by Metta Hills (Mrs. E. C. Hills).

Mrs. Hills was accompanied by her husband, head of the Spanish department at the University of California. He was knighted by the King of Spain for his work in Spanish. She has spent considerable time traveling through Guatemala and Mexico, studying the native customs and costumes.

Mrs. Toomey Speaks

The exhibit was highlighted at 2 p.m. Wednesday, October 11, by Mrs. L. O. Toomey as guest speaker. Her subject, "Guatemala," was illustrated by use of color movies.

Mrs. Toomey, a former member of the faculty, is the wife of Dr. L. O. Toomey, local physician.

The water color paintings illustrate the different native customs which are characteristic of each village in Guatemala. One such custom is the belief that the horse is a god.

When the Spaniards conquered the Guatemalans in the fifteenth century, they introduced the horse for the first time. The Indians were amazed at its great strength; thus the horse became their god, and each year they have a holiday in honor of the horse.

Native Weaving

The horse is also illustrated in the textiles of the people. In the Lake Atitlan region of Guatemala, the natives weave into their work a symbol of a man riding a horse because they believe man and horse are one creature.

In the region of Palin, the character which is woven into the native work is the turkey (pavo), the symbol of "Tlaloc," god of rain and life.

The Guatemala people also have a sense of humor, one such item being an embroidery depicting "Tourist."

BAND ELECTS GRADY

Stan Grady has been elected president of the Western band for 1950-51. Other officers are Edgar Minor vice president; Helen Brinkley, secretary; and Walter Green, treasurer.

Dance Set For Tomorrow Night

A new dance-recreation plan will be held for the first time tomorrow night when Ed Bridges and his orchestra play for local collegians in the Armory.

Organized by Eugene Tanner, Rhea Taylor, and Bridges "to give students regular worth-while entertainment at a low cost," the dance will be held each Saturday night when no school activity conflicts.

The eight-piece band of Western students consists of Jim Galbreath, Skip Jensen, and Jack Rinehard, saxophones; Ed Bridges and Pat Mastroleo, trumpets; Jim Olliges, trombone; W. R. Snyder, drums; and Charles Ball, piano and vocal.

Bridges describes the music of the orchestra as "definitely designed for dancing." A floor show is to be added soon.

Hours are from 8 until 12. Admission is $50.

Enrollment Of 1754 Full-Time Students Shows Slight Drop

Final figures give Western an enrollment of 1754 full-time students for the fall semester, according to Registrar E. H. Canon. This follows a national tendency toward a slight drop in college enrollments.

Last fall, 1833 were enrolled; and in the spring, 1775.

Classes have enrollments as follows: freshman, 637; sophomores, 423; junior, 340; senior, 318; graduate, 29; and special, 7.

Mr. Canon noted large enrollments in the agriculture and industrial arts departments, as well as ROTC, which has the largest in its history.

The proportion of men to women has changed slightly. According to Mr. Canon, there are 1217 men and 537 women in daily attendance. Enrolled under the G. I. Bill of Rights are 343 veterans.

The registrar attributes the slight decrease to the almost total lack of freshmen enrolling under the G. I. Bill of Rights and to the large graduating classes of last year. In June and August, a total of 466 students were graduated.

Toppers Hit Stride To Upset Morehead 23-21

An indomitable Western spirit that prevailed over Morehead last Saturday enabled the victory-bent Hillmen to topple the highly touted O. V. C. leading Eagles 23-21.

It was spirit and play like that of linemen Hoyt Threet and Owen Blanton that spelled the close margin of victory for the Toppers.

FLEET WESTERN backs, often Sam Short and Gene McFadden, whizzed through the holes the Topper linemen repeatedly punched in the Morehead defense to pile up 274 yards on the ground.

Things looked gloomy in what appeared to be a fatal fourth period as Eagle back Chuck Porter, whose passes to 65" Corky Kurtley accounted for all three Morehead touchdowns, pushed the Eagles out front 21-13.

Then with seven scant minutes remaining, Short sparked a down field drive that included galloping Gene McFadden and Willie Watson, who averaged better than 9 yards a try for the game.

JOHN SOWDERS contributed some yardage and Mac Stevens scored. Gilbert added the point to narrow the deficit 21-29. With three minutes remaining Western maneuvered the ball to the 18 and center of the field. Toe specialist Butch Gilbert then pushed the Western all-out effort to the victorious, climatic 23-21 with a field goal.

Morehead opened the scoring early in the first quarter when the combination of Chuck Porter to Corky Kurtley tipped off its potency.

Sam Short, running wild, as well as hitting his target, and Cowan, with passes, forced the first of the spectacular Western drives to success with Sowders scoring the six points. Gilbert missed the uprights and the tally remained 7-6 at the intermission.

IN THE THIRD quarter Kurtley took another Porter pass to jack up the margin 13-6. Halfback Jerry Wing made it 14-6.

It was linemen Hoyt Threet who, unsatisfied with his heavy contribution in the line to the Topper effort, took a lateral from end Hank Cowan for the next Eagle headache. Gilbert's one point acquisition left the Toppers one point shy of the Eagles' 14 points. Then after 53 minutes the Toppers pulled the story-book finish.

The Western victory over the greatly favored Morehead team was the result of a fighting spirit, and a savage aggressiveness that has been lacking previously. Roy Hina, tireless along with the other sixty minute battering ram Hoyt Threet and bruising guard Owen Blanton, fired the Western line. Scott averaged an enviable 44 yards in the punting department while Short was on the attack everywhere.

Toppers After Third Victory

By Aubrey Tucker

After a spectacular win over he loudly lauded Morehead Eagles last week which Coach Jack explained "The boys just wanted to win."

Western faces a tough Georgetown team tomorrow afternoon. Western observers believe that, with two exceptions, the upset produced by the Western eleven was the greatest reversal of form in Topper grid-history.

Statistics of last week's game showed an unquestionable Western superiority in all departments except passing.

Western was elevated in O. V. C. standings by virtue of the unexpected victory. The team now divides the upper and lower ranks of the seven team conference by standing

Important In Victory

TWO REASONS why the Toppers were able to knock the Morehead Eagles from their O.V.C. perch are Tackle-End Hoyt Threet, left, and Guard Owen Blanton. These two stalwarts in the Topper line scuttled four Eagles to ease the way for one Western touchdown.

Marshall Drops Western 47-13

After dominating first quarter play, Western was swept underfoot by the second quarter stampede of the Thundering Herd of Marshall College to lose 46-13 on October 7.

In a mad second quarter, the Marshallites collected four touchdowns and an equal number of extra markers to leave the Toppers at a 28-0 disadvantage at the half.

Despite their occasional moments of glory the Toppers experienced when Elmer and Bilyeau got loose, the second quarter scoring spree of the visitors was the swan song of the Toppers' hope for the OVC victory.

Frank Mazza, the Marshall flash, scoring three of the opposition touchdowns was the big gun in that team's backfield.

With the score 14-0 in the waning moments of the first half, two Western desperation passes were intercepted by the alert boys from Huntington, West Virginia. These resulted in touch downs and widened the margin that Western was unable to close.

Felix's aerial to sleeping-end Saca, after scat-back Bobby Bilyeau had set the stage for the score with a 30 yard jaunt to the Marshall 8, accounted for one Topper T. D.

The way for the second Western T. D. also was paved by Bilyeau who collected a pair of first downs. But it was the hustling Elmer who took a juggled handoff from Felix and blazed 40 yards through the entire Marshall defense to score.

Co-Captain Joe Talley left the field early in the game with an injured ankle and his loss was keenly felt.

Osborne, Hina, and Green stood out in the Topper forewall play.

Seventy Board Wagons For P. E. Club Hayride

A hayride was held by the Physical Education club at Beech Bend Park, Friday, October 6.

They rode in wagons to the park, where a roaring fire was started, and in a very few minutes, all of the weiners were gone. Dancing and skating followed.

The seventy picnickers returned to the gym for dancing, each with "a song in his heart and a straw in his mouth."

Perkins Awarded ROTC Trophy At Summer Camp

Cadet Captain James I. Perkins, of Army ROTC, was awarded the trophy as outstanding cadet of the entire cadet regiment of 950 students who attended summer camp at Fort Benning this year.

Perkins won this singular honor from a highly competitive field, including the best that the strictly military academies Citadel and Clemson offer. He was selected on the basis of all-around military, including command ability, neatness, bearing, and proficiency in the military arms.

In the field of athletics Perkins was selected the outstanding college volleyball player at camp where he played as captain of the championship team.

A native of Bowling Green, Perkins served in the Army overseas during the last war as an enlisted man and joined the Army ROTC unit at WKSC in order to receive a commission in the Army of the United States. He received his appointment as second lieutenant at the end of summer camp and entered a period of active duty with the National Guard. He has returned to Western to work toward his degree this fall.

Captains Join ROTC Faculty

Captains A. P. Adair and William F. Lane have been assigned to Western as assistant professors of air science and tactics.

Captains Adair and Lane were graduated recently from the United States Air Force's Special Staff school at Craig Air Force Base, Ala., after successfully completing the academic instructor's course.

The school was under the supervision of Gen. George C. Kenney, wartime commander of the air forces in the Pacific area who is now in charge of the Air University command.

The academic instructor's course was especially designed for the benefit of newly assigned instructors who are to teach air science and tactics in colleges throughout the country.

Primarily concerned with instructing air ROTC personnel in the latest scientific techniques of teaching, the course included lectures by members of the Air War College and the Air Command and Staff school faculties.

Captain Lane, a native of Gallatin, Tenn., is a former Military Air Transport Service pilot, who served in the Pacific and who participated in the recent Berlin air lift. He is married and has two children, Billy, 11, and Catherine, 3.

A troop carrier pilot during World War II who served in England, Africa, Italy and Sicily, Captain Adair's home is in Paris, Ky. He is also married.

Chapman Back

DON CHAPMAN, another Topper Wingback resumed practice this week. He sprained an ankle early in the season. If this doesn't hamper Chapman and pre-season's practice, showings are an indication, grid fans may yet see some fancy footwork on the part of this 165 pound junior transfer student.

High School Bands Plan Half-Time Show

A part of the sights and sounds of tomorrow's game with Georgetown will be the presence on the campus of ten or twelve bands from various high schools in Kentucky.

The Western band, directed by Allen R. Sigel will share the pre-game and halftime ceremonies with their guests.

The show between halves will be climaxed by a performance on the field of the massed bands, under the baton of Mr. Sigel.

Downing Coaches Ex-Hilltoppers On Pro Net Team

Alex Downing, BS'42, has assumed the coaching position of the New Louisville entry in the National pro cage loop.

Downing has a first hand knowledge of the sport, having performed for Coach Ed Diddle at a guard position with Hilltopper quintets of a few years back, where Mr. Diddle avers he did a good job.

Coach Downing will not be entirely a man among strangers as other ex-Hilltoppers, Don Ray, Dee Gibson, Odie Spears, and Charlie Parsley are contenders for spots in the Knight's lineup.

Downing has coached at Summer Shade, Edmonton, Allen County, and Bourbon county.

The Knights will play their home games in the Male High gym, the first of these being slated for November 1.

The Knights have come into existence after much demand of Louisville for a pro outfit representing the city.

Coach Hornback ventures the opinion that "the Knights should hold their own in the league."

Coach Downing majored in physical education at Western and saw service in World War II.

Gym Activities Open To Every Student

Some persons like to be entertained; some, to do the entertaining. Both types are welcome at the Western gymnasium.

Basketballs, volleyballs, footballs, badminton sets, tumbling mats, and other equipment is available. One need only ask Lee Kelly for it. There are also tennis courts down by the practice field, which are popular.

Soon, Coach Frank Griffin's class will begin the intramural sports for men and women.

Victory Is Great!

Following the Toppers upset of Morehead, the Westerner's locker room was the scene of wild back slapping and a rare display of affection. Butch Gilbert whose field goal added the winning points remarked "I'll never miss another placement, I never got so much courtin' 'til today."

Guard Al Green complained that Co-Captain Joe Talley's whiskers scratched his face in an uncontrollable emotional display that seemed completely incongruous to these big jolting boys.

Sgt. Peschell Swims In Meet

Sgt. first class Albert E. Peschell, a member of the Army ROTC department, participated in the Second Army championship swimming meet August 21 through 26 at Edgewood, Maryland.

Sgt. Peschell was in competition with men from Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia, West Virginia, Ohio, and Kentucky.

He entered three events, the one hundred meter free style, the fifty meter free style and the one meter low board dive. In each event Peschell scored fifth place, winning for the WKSC Army ROTC a trophy emblematic of the 1950 Second Army swimming championship.

Sgt. Peschell, with the cooperation of the physical education department, trained daily in the school's pool for almost three months in preparation for the meet.

At the end of the meet, Sgt. Peschell was presented to the Commanding General of the Second Army, Lt. General Van Fleet, as the one man swimming team from "WKSC ROTC unit."

COMPARE CHESTERFIELD WITH ANY OTHER CIGARETTE!

BEFORE YOU SMOKE THEM

...you can tell Chesterfields will smoke milder, because tobaccos that smell milder smoke milder.

AFTER YOU SMOKE THEM

...you have no unpleasant after-taste.

WHILE YOU SMOKE THEM you get more pleasure than any other cigarette can give you—that's why millions of smokers say: THEY SATISFY.
